We left the parking toward the reservoir and passed, if the water permits, under the bridge, taking the path that matches on this side of the river with the GR 11 (red and white markers) and climbs up the river on its right bank, through a lush forest with beech and fir trees. After 50 minutes on the way we reach the metal bridge that allows us to cross to the opposite shore to begin the return of the Left Bank. The trail starts by the old road opened by the hydroelectric company Enher, from the village to the azud of Aneto Morelló Llauset in the ravine, in which route we will pass by the view over the valley of the Noguera Ribagorzana and enjoy a path with a varied vegetation. From the azud (1h.15 'approximately) the path back again to the village by the canal that carries water to the forebay of the power plant of Senet. This channel offers stunning views of the valley and a slight slope, but the difficulty is in the narrowness of some points and the risk of rock falls in rainy days as it crosses a narrow strip in a stunning cliff.
